CROSSFIELD FUR FASHION SHOW A BIG HIT WITH THE LADIES

SALLY FORREST looks like a peach of a beach Lorelei! She goes through some calisthenics on a California beach after completing MGM's latest movie, "Bannerline."

Bells, Streamers Used To Decorate For Bridal Shower

CROSSFIELD—A profusion of pretty pink and white streamers and white wedding bells marked the chair of an honored guest, when on Saturday, Oct. 27, Mrs. Gale, nee Eunice Harrison, was the recipient of an open miscellaneous shower in the United church parlor at 8:30 p.m.

Little Linda Tweedie presented the gifts in a pink and white trimmed basket which she drew in on a little wagon. Mrs. Gale was assisted by Kay Kotow and Ada Jensen in the opening of the parcels, which were numerous and beautiful. A gracious thanks was given by the bride in appreciation to those who were present, and a special thanks to those who had made her shower possible.

Sharing honors at the tea urns, at a very attractive table set with silver and centered with a pleasing bouquet of mauve and yellow spray mums, were the mothers of the happy couple, Mrs. Harrison, Crossfield, and Mrs. Gale, Didsbury.

Conveners for this shower were Mrs. Ernie Tweedie, Kay Kotow, and Mrs. Budgeton, ably assisted by co-workers.

"It's nice to have seen them," said the spectators. "It's nice to have worn them," said the models, among the casual remarks from a promptly winterized Crossfield, heard after Mr. Samuels, manager of "Kraft the Furriers," Calgary, whipped up from that city with his precious load of fur worth $48,000. He gave those interested a close up on the latest in fur styling Oct. 24 in the Memorial hall.

This entertainment was sponsored by the Avanti group of the United church, ably convened by Mesdames Campbell and Charney and commenced at 2:30 p.m. There were two showings with intermission for tea which was served by a group of young CGIT.

Seven young matrons, Mesdames Stillings, Mansell, Sharp, Cummings, Heppner and Dawn modelled the beautiful garments, on a panel carpet which stretched the length of the hall, broken only by a stately golden, arched portal in which elevated recess, the models gracefully walked, disclosing the artistic contours, soft folds, classic sleeves and elaborate fur of each pyramid styled coat.

With Mrs. Steele at the piano soft music afforded a fitting background as Mr. Samuels, on the PA system gave a very interesting and instructive commentary describing the special styling, quality, durability and class of each garment.

Each model received hearty applause. One mink coat modelled was appraised at $6,000.

A lake table, conducted by Mesdames Paynter and Gowler was very short lived as the home cooking brought ready sale.

Sharing honors at the tea urns were Mesdames Edlund, Stillings, N. Fox, Heppner and E. Lilley. Great credit is due to the conveners and co-workers on the achievement of such a novel undertaking at which over $85 was realized.

Coveted Honor Won By Girls

CROSSFIELD.—Miss Marjory Banta has accepted a position in the Canadian Bank of Commerce and started duties Oct. 23. She will be allowed two weeks to make the trip to Toronto, together with Jo-anne Copley.

This is a much coveted honor the girls have attained through their proficiency in Garden Club work.

Marjory is replacing Alfred Pupert who has tendered his resignation to the bank.

COMING EVENTS AT CROSSFIELD

Don't forget the Red Cross tea, sale of home products and home cooking on Saturday, Nov. 3, in the community hall.

Don't forget to be a guest at the open miscellaneous shower given in honor of Mrs. Maeve Edgar in the United church parlor on Nov. 3. Everyone will be very welcome and will enjoy a pleasant evening with lunch.

Don't forget the big bazaar, sale of home cooking and tea in Memorial Hall on Nov. 17 at 3 p.m., sponsored by the United Church W.A.

Mesdames Stillings, Heppner and Bennie convened and acted as servers for the Harrison-Gale wedding reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Harrison. They were assisted with the necessary home cooking by several others of the Avanti group to which they belonged. The proceeds were turned over to the Avanti W.A. Those assisting were Mrs. Becker, Mrs. Tweedie, Mrs. Charney and Mrs. Stewart.

The Afternoon Bridge club members met at the home of Mrs. H. Lorie to enjoy a pleasant afternoon of cards and a tasty lunch. Honors went to Mrs. J. Belshaw and Mrs. Lorie.

Owing to the illness of Mr. Knight, father of Mrs. C. D. Casey, a special reservation was asked on TCA and Mr. and Mrs. Knight and daughter, Mrs. Smith, are all back in Victoria once more. Mr. Knight is slightly improved.

Glen Klein, of the Co-op store, attended the firemen's ball in Didsbury and a wedding the following day.

Walter Havens is a patient in a Calgary hospital.

Mrs. Bud Shantz is in a Calgary hospital, where she has undergone surgery.

Mesdames Edlund, Borbridge, Wood, M. Murdoch, C. High and A. Stevens, conveners for an open miscellaneous shower in honor of Madeline Snyder, would like to take this opportunity of extending an invitation for all to attend. It will be held in the United church parlor Wednesday, Nov. 7, at 8:30 p.m. Come and enjoy the evening, you will be made a very welcome guest.

Old Timers Gather At Carstairs Dance

CROSSFIELD—About twenty-seven Crossfielders attended the dance in Carstairs Oct. 22.

This was to have been the first round-up of the Carstairs old-timers but, owing to the road conditions, it was turned into an open dance at the last minute, but still favored a well-attended representation of the good old organization, and a hearty welcome was given to all.

A wonderful lunch was enjoyed and good, sprightly dancing with Lea Lewis and Mrs. Foster's Mountaineers.

Executive Meeting Oct. 24

President William Murdoch called an executive and committee meeting on Oct. 24 at the home of E. Lilley, secretary-treasurer, to start the ball rolling for the famous "Old Timers Round-up" which is always the last Wednesday in November.

The music, Mrs. Foster's Mountaineers, has been confirmed.

The program committee, with Mrs. Casey as leader, has started work. Decorators have been appointed and are all eager and ready for the big night.

WILL HE RUN AGAIN? The present Parliament of Canada was only elected in June, 1949, and can stay in power another two and a half years if the Liberal party decides to wait that long for a new election. But current talk is ripe about a June, 1952 election and speculation about candidates in Quebec involves Fred Rose, Communist. Rose has just been released from jail and is free to run for Parliament again as a free citizen.

REMEMBRANCE DAY ARRANGEMENTS FOR CROSSFIELD LEGION BRANCH

At a recent meeting of the Crossfield branch of the Canadian Legion, R.E.S.L., committees were named to arrange for the annual Armistice dance and Remembrance Day service. The dance is to be held on Friday, Nov. 9, and the usual good time is assured. The Remembrance Day service will be held in the Community Memorial Hall on Sunday, Nov. 11, commencing at 10:15 a.m.

Rev. J. W. MacDonald will deliver the sermon and will be assisted by Rev. J. E. Ball and Rev. A. B. Lea, the branch padre.

After this service, wreaths will be placed on the cenotaph. Anyone wishing a wreath for this purpose should contact the secretary, Harry May, as soon as possible. POPPY DAY will be held on Saturday, Nov. 10, and one of the Junior groups will be asked to act as taggers.

A Christmas party is to be arranged at a later date for the children of all ex-service personnel in the district.

Anglicans Honor Mrs. Maeve Edgar

Mesdames Coulson, Wilson and Mumby were joint conveners for a delightful tea given in the home of Mrs. Wilson, Oct. 23, when the Anglican congregational ladies honored Mrs. Maeve Edgar, whose marriage takes place Nov. 10.

Mrs. Coulson, president of the guild, in a few well chosen remarks, presented Mrs. Edgar a half dozen 1947 Rodgers silver teaspoons in the daffodil pattern.

On behalf of the Sunday School, Mrs. Mumby also made a presentation to the honored guest in which she voiced an appreciative thanks for her efforts on their behalf and with best wishes for her future, gave her a Devon violet sugar and cream set.

Mrs. Edgar suitably responded. A tasty lunch was served.

News In Brief From Crossfield

CROSSFIELD — Mrs. Prohl, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Ball of the United church, is a guest at the manse for a few weeks. Mrs. F. Laut has been indisposed for the last week, suffering from a heart condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Stan Pryce (nee Florence Landmore, are rejoicing in the birth of a son, Arthur Richard, a little brother for David Lloyd, Monday, Oct. 22.

Inverlea Club Holds Bazaar

INVERLEA — The Inverlea Ladies' club held a very successful bazaar, sale of home cooking and tea on Saturday, Oct. 27, and wish to report that the quilt was won by Louis Bliss on ticket No. 30. The club appreciated the attendance and wish to thank all patrons for their assistance in the good work.

FALL FASHION—The short evening dress above, popular for fall wear, is of Italian jacquard taffeta.

AVA GARDNER and Clark Gable have apparently found something highly amusing in the script they are studying between scenes at the M-U-M Studio. They are filming "Lone Star," which absolutely MUST be a story with a Texas background.

Edmonton Responded Well

The day was cold, damp and a light rain was falling. Premier Manning spoke truly when he said the weather was unusual. It would have been more usual if the weather man had given us either a warm October day, Indian Summer style, or else 10 above zero with no rain but more snow. In spite of the weather, the people of Edmonton came out of their warm, dry homes to welcome their Royal Highnesses in the traditionally enthusiastic but reserved manner.

Mayor Parsons, beset by a fast-approaching Civic election could be excused for forgetting to speak into the microphone at the Legislative steps. Princess Elizabeth read a speech in faultless English, right into the speaker—a speech so well written that it could have come from a typewriter in the Department of Economic Affairs right here in Edmonton. Premier Manning, throughout the ceremonies calm, collected and apparently master of the situation, was obviously unnerved after he had escorted Her Royal Highness to the Cadillac. A slight delay in the departure of the big plastic topped car left him for a few moments on the horns of a dilemma. Whether to wait until the Royal car had pulled away or go directly to their own car with Mrs. Manning was the Premier's problem. There are times when the mightiest man among us is made to feel like a bashful teen-ager on his first date.

At Colonel Mewburn Hospital Elizabeth and Philip did chat with a few folks on the common level and this always makes for good feelings when Royalty meets and talks with the people. They attended the football game where even the Eskis responded with a smashing victory over the Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Always too confident to do much boasting, the people of Edmonton did well by the Royal Visitors. The next time they come here we hope they'll be able to stay long enough to know us.

Wanted: More Royalty

Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh have been and gone. Edmonton was in the mood for celebration — and "a good time was had by all." For many it meant hours of dreary, motionless standing in the cold rain, for but a fleeting look at the Royal couple. To more fortunate citizens it meant actual participation in the ceremonies, the appearances and the banquet with the honoured visitors.

Somehow or other, the Royal family seems very remote from our Canadian way of life. Idealizing, as it does, a united loyalty to our British-born democratic manner of government, we should have more Royal appearances in Canada. In the days when it took six weeks to cross the Atlantic and a trip overland 3,000 miles was unthinkable the system of having a member of the Royal family visit Canada once in a lifetime was undoubtedly the most practical way to deal with Royalty.

Now, however, the King of Canada is only a few hours away at all times by air from our shores and appearances of the Royal family should be as frequent as once a year. The Duke of Windsor is no longer acceptable as a representative of the Crown to Canada, but what about his other brother, the Duke of Gloucester?

If we are going to preserve our allegiance to the British Crown, even only in name, we must have the co-operation of members of the Royal family who are willing and able to come here and spend some time in this country.

Reclaiming Australian Desert

While Alberta is busy establishing irrigation districts for good, productive land that lacks only a dependable year-in, year-out rainfall, the government of another member of the Commonwealth is tackling somewhat similar problems.

A project to reclaim half a million acres of desert land is now underway in South Australia. Unlike most deserts, this area is not short of moisture but the soil is deficient in certain essential plant foods. By adding small quantities of the trace elements copper and zinc the area can be made quite productive. As the land is fertilized it is seeded down to grasses and converted into individual farms for production of sheep or dairy cattle.

Price Control

Tremendous pressure is being brought upon the Canadian government to enact price control laws to prevent further rises in the cost of living. While the government has been loath to take such action, cabinet ministers have hinted that public opinion may force them to do so.

In the midst of public discussion on this question, H. H. Hannam, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, made very plain the opinion of farm organizations on the subject. Said Mr. Hannam.

"If any government thought of clamping price controls on food without at the same time putting controls on profits and wages, it is going to hear from the farmers. Organized agriculture will fight. The government will have a bigger row on its hands than it now has with the clamor for price control."

Mr. Hannam pointed out that food prices today are not high in relation to other prices, or in relation to wage rates, or the profits being made by industry. Most food in terms of work required to purchase it, is cheaper than it has ever been. This fact is borne out by a comparison of average earnings in industry and average prices for staple food.

Others who can control their production and who set or help to establish their price or wage levels, said Mr. Hannam, have been more responsible for the high price structure of today than the farmer.

Speaking of the proposal that food be subsidized, Mr. Hannam said. "Why should subsidies on food be urged and not subsidies on other things. It is humiliating for the farmer to be picked out as the only one who is not entitled to a fair exchange value for his product in the market place."

De-Centralizing Local Government

Considerable interest has been evoked by the recent removal of the Sturgeon School Division offices for the Morinville district from the City of Edmonton to Morinville. The Municipal District office was already located in Morinville, for the Municipal District of Morinville, but the neighboring Municipal District of Sturgeon has had and still have their offices on Jasper Avenue.

The largest settlement within the boundaries of the Sturgeon Municipal District is at Gibbons, and a number of residents and rate-payers feel that the Municipal District offices should be located there. Others would like to see the office re-located in North Edmonton.

All this indicates a trend away from centralization in the big city, but this undoubtedly poses a problem for staff members who by moving are obliged to either give up their city homes or drive many miles daily to and from the office 20 or more miles away from home.

At the rate Edmonton is growing, we may expect to see towns such as St. Albert, Morinville, Gibbons and Fort Saskatchewan become very close neighbors to the city by virtue of the latter's expanding boundaries due to ever-growing population. Perhaps within the life span of most of us Edmonton will absorb these communities. A population of 300,000 within ten years is not unlikely and if in twenty years Edmonton has half a million population we can count on these communities becoming much bigger, too, although by that time they'll be merely in the city suburbs.

Plan For Road Research

The thirty-second convention of the Good Roads Association of Canada is to be held in Toronto Nov. 1 and 3, and it is expected there will be 1,000 members present, all of whom are interested in the building of good roads in all the ten provinces of the dominion.

In the matter of good roads, of modern construction, most parts of Canada are far behind the times. There is need for wider consideration and assistance for road building in Alberta in the interest of agriculture and the growth of industry, as well as for the sake of defence in case of war. If ever the tide of war sweeps onto Canadian soil the means of rapid transportation of army personnel and equipment may mean the difference between defeat and victory.

Hon. G. E. Taylor is to be a delegate at the Good Roads convention and it is to be hoped he will take a constructive view of proposals to be broached for the establishment of a research institute for highway construction in Canada. Alberta needs more and better roads in order that the growing prosperity of the province may be better served.

My Letter To Princess Elizabeth

By T. W. PUE

Dear Elizabeth:

You don't know me, but some day you may be Queen of England and someday I may be your Canadian Prime Minister. You have a good chance of being queen. I have a chance of being prime minister, but the odds are so against me that I never give it a second thought. If I were prime minister, though, I would like to talk to you as Disraeli is reported to have spoken to your great-grandmother. When, in a huff, she reminded him "Sir, do not forget I am the Queen of England." He replied, "Madam, do not forget I am the people of England."

On Saturday you with your handsome husband were in the midst of a quarter-million residents of Northern Alberta. To thousands of children of all ages you were the fairy Princess who stepped into their midst for moments because a few brief moments. Yes, they were only moments, because although you spent nine hours in Edmonton, hardly anyone got more than a passing glimpse of you.

I was one of the lucky ones who saw you step off the train at the CNR station. I hotfooted abreast—about ten paces away, with a group of reporters and photographers. Those men, like myself, were intent on getting actual photographs and word pictures that would convey to our people a picture of the future Queen mingling with the people, and yet retaining her royal dignity. You saw me standing—although you did not, of course, recognize me in any way at the legislative buildings. You and your husband stood but a foot from the group of reporters who carefully observed your every movement while in front of the legislative buildings.

I saw you as the big Cadillac pulled away, saw you through the plastic roof of your car. Some mud had gotten on the back of your dainty little right shoe and you were rubbing it off with your glove.

I saw this as the eyes and ears of the thousands of people who read our papers. I have to report I am one of the luckiest guys in the country. I was indeed privileged to get such a good view of Your Royal Highnesses. Truly, you were the Princess of Canada, and insofar as my newspaper readers are concerned, I represent the people of Canada.

A TIRING TRIP

When I saw you, I sensed that this was a tiring trip. There was no thrill left in it for you. You had made so many public appearances in the last few weeks we couldn't blame you for feeling tired but, Elizabeth, Edmonton was just beaming with excitement. To them it was your first appearance. And, frankly, I did not feel that either you or the Duke responded to that feeling.

I was sorry that in the few moments you had on the legislative steps, waiting for the rest of the official party to drive up, you and your husband did not make the rounds of the children who had been standing motionless a long, long time for you to arrive. The Duke did speak to one or two, and you did wave your hand to the crowd a few times—but you had the time to really meet a good number of young Canadians—and you missed the opportunity.

I had read an earlier report that in an Eastern hospital the Duke of Edinburgh had looked at an ex-serviceman who had lost both arms and both legs. One of you only LOOKED at him. Did it occur to you that you both should have walked up to that man, put your hand on the stump of one arm, and thanked him on behalf of all of us for the sacrifice he had made? I remembered how, years before, your Uncle David leaned over and kissed the misshapen face of a veteran who had given all but life for his country, with tears in his eyes, and I could weep at the opportunity you both had missed on this occasion.

Near the beginning of your present Canadian tour a young man displayed a great deal of courage and ingenuity and pushed himself right up to your Royal person and asked for your autograph. If, instead of saying "no", you had given him your signature and a short, kind word of reproof for his boldness, not a single Canadian would have found fault with you. We Canadians are always happy when the underdog comes out on top. Protocol or no protocol.

I wish you had planned on spending a month in Alberta. I wish you had been here long enough to meet the people. No doubt you have learned a lot in your short lifetime, but you have not learned the greatest lesson of all—the lesson of meeting people. They are the most interesting subject in all the lesson books. But you don't learn it in books—you learn this by meeting people.

When you meet President Truman in Washington, you'll meet a man who epitomizes Greatness in the midst of the common man, the little man, the man of the street. I am sorry the Duke of Edinburgh did not "kick-off" for the players at Saturday night's football game. We would have loved him for it, even if the soles of his shoes did get a bit of mud on them. But when you see Harry Truman, just remember that he threw in the first ball for a recent baseball game and the Canadian and American people heartily approved.

For the rest of your Canadian tour, Elizabeth, how about a change of routine? If I were you, I'd absolutely insist on having dinner with a coal miner's family in Cape Breton. I'd be royally indignant if I couldn't visit a potato farmer on Prince Edward Island. And if it meant getting back to England a few days later I'd see to it that for the rest of my Canadian tour I met the common people of Canada. Many of our people are new Canadians, not steeped as I have been in traditional loyalty to the British crown. You've been sent here to sell yourself and the High Purposes to which God has called you to the people of Canada. Elizabeth, be a good saleswoman.

Because I write you this letter, Elizabeth, please not not take offense. If your battery of secretaries lets you read it. There are scores of other newspaper writers who would like to write what I have written, but they don't dare because they are working for someone else who could fire them. I am working for myself because I am publisher of my own papers.

Some Canadians—perhaps some writers—will criticize me. But this is a case where "your best friend won't tell you" so even if I'm not your best friend I hope you'll consider me one of your best Canadian friends. Because, in my own blundering way I've tried to tell you what one Canadian honestly thinks about your tour of this country we love.

And to prove my sincerity I am closing this letter in exactly the same way I would if writing to any other good friend that deserves my honest opinion and highest respects.

With every good wish, I am,
Sincerely yours,
Bill Pue.

REPLY TO RILEY

Dear Sir—So the poor tired businessman thinks farmers lead the Life of Riley! Apparently he has never been outside the city limits. I am not a farmer, but I drive through eight miles of farming country every morning on my way to work, and I can assure that silly letter writer that the farmers are all up and about their chores at that time.

Elizabeth and Philip Set Fashion Styles On Cross-Country Travels

The colors Edinburgh green and Elizabeth blue are catching on in Canadian fashion circles, even though Princess Elizabeth's special tour wardrobe isn't likely to start any fashion trends.

Most of the clothes the Princess brought with her already had been previewed as she passed through Edmonton back across the continent, and it's the colors she chose that are showing up in the shop windows.

FEATURES HATS

One Victoria, B.C., dress shop featured a window of Edinburgh green hats when the Princess visited there. Most women found the blue green shade flattering the shop owner commented.

The slate blue chosen by the future queen for a tailored suit, a fitted patterned silk coat and a silk dress, is the second most popular shade in her wardrobe.

"We're calling it 'Elizabeth blue,' since it seems to go so well with her eyes and her coloring," a local department store buyer said.

Early reports on the specially designed wardrobe forecast a shade called Elizabeth rose. Only the rosey brown shade, already seen in a satin cocktail dress and a velvet coat, has just been described as light brown since Princess Elizabeth arrived.

The Princess doesn't regard herself as a fashion setter, and has been reported mildly annoyed at all the attention given her clothes. She chose a comfortable rose-tinted suit characteristic of British tailoring for her three-day Vancouver Island holiday, and apparently thoroughly enjoyed wearing the same suit every day.

Of the 18 complete outfits created by Norman Hartnell and Hardy Aimes for her trip, Princess Elizabeth has most often worn her full-skirted slate blue silk coat, her moss green velvet fitted coat and a dark red coat trimmed with black velvet.

Unless it is very cold, she prefers the velvet or cloth coats to one of the three daytime fur coats she brought with her.

If anybody is influenced by her taste in clothes it will be short women who want to look taller. The one color costumes and fitted coats add an illusion of height which the five foot three inch Princess needs.

"It's a shame she's so short,

SOCIALISTS JAILED

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — The Socialist party of Argentina reported that two prominent Uruguayan Socialist leaders were arrested by Argentine police.

The Socialists said the two men were picked up by police last night. However, federal police say they have no knowledge of the arrests.

Isn't it, or else we could see her better," commented one woman who was standing on tiptoe to catch a glimpse of the Princess reviewing an honor guard. "You'd never think of her as short until you tried to see her like this."

Warning Issued To Radio Owners

The district superintendent of radios for the Department of Transport has issued warning to all radio owners of the Edmonton district. Radio inspectors will be going around shortly checking on unlicensed radios.

Persons not having their new licence will be subject to court action and fines. All licences expired April 1st, last, and owners are asked to get their new ones from the post office, some radio dealers, or from the Radio Inspector, 10138 100A St. Edmonton.

The Lighter Side

Pottery Psychiatrist

A G.I. asking for a loan was asked what his business was and gave the startling answer that he was a psychiatrist in a pottery factory. Further questioning drew out the information that he took care of the cracked pots.

Terrific Speed

A jet plane pilot had the job of carrying a Very Important Person to New York City. After a short time in the air he turned to the big shot: "We missed New York sir. We'll have to circle back."

"How could you possibly miss a huge city like New York?" blustered the VIP.

The pilot confessed: "I blinked."

Well Acquainted

A young teacher substituted for a friend who was taking a week's honeymoon. A month later at a party someone started to introduce the groom to her.

"Oh," he answered brightly, "I know Miss Royal very well indeed. She substituted for my wife on our honeymoon."

That Explains Everything

When Jones met his old friend, Smith, whom he hadn't seen in six months, he was shocked by his altered appearance. His face looked haggard, his eyes held a gloomy stare, and the way his clothes draped his frame spoke eloquently of a considerable weight loss.

"Good heavens, man!" Jones

exclaimed. "Have you been ill?"
"No," Smith answered, wearily; "but my wife is on a reducing diet."

$100,000 Claims Filed in Leduc Hotel Explosion to Be Heard in City Court

The Leduc Hotel explosion which claimed 10 lives last Remembrance Day has resulted in the filing of two damage claims totalling more than $100,000.

The claims have been filed in Supreme Court in Calgary against Leduc Utilities Limited and six other defendants. The trials will be in Edmonton.

The hotel explosion was said to have been caused by natural gas which entered the hotel from the newly-installed system of the utility firm.

The claims arose from the deaths of Arthur R. Manville, 54, of Blackie, Alta., and Fred F. Franklin, of Calgary. The first is for $80,000 and the second for $25,000.

Plaintiffs in the two actions are Mrs. M. L. Manville, of Blackie, widow, administratrix of the estate of A. R. Manville, and the Alberta Public Trustee as administrator of the estate of Fred F. Franklin.

The defendants named in the action are: Leduc Utilities Ltd.; F. H. Wilson, L. F. Wilson, and W. P. Prosser of the contracting firm of Wilson and Wilson, Edmonton; W. J. Gray, Calgary, chief engineer and works supervisor; R. M. Rault, Edmonton plumber, and Frederick Takarek, Leduc laborer.

Stampeders Execs All Quit Posts

CALGARY, Alta., Oct. 26 — (BUP) — The Calgary Stampeders of the Western Football Conference were without a president or executive today following the mass resignation of president Tom Brooks and 25 board members.

Brooke said the new executive would be named within the next day or two, however, and it would probably consist of a group within the club itself.

The mass resignations came after Calgary had finished in the cellar of the four-team conference for the second straight year.

C. E. Chesher, president of the Canadian Exploration Co. Ltd., was named chairman of the committee responsible for picking the new slate of officers.

Brooke was president when the Stampeders won the Grey Cup in 1948 and went to the Dominion final the next year. During the past two seasons, however, the club has been unable to repeat its success, and wound up in the league cellar two seasons in a row.

As United Nations Begins 7th Year Fear of War Heightens World Tension

By BRUCE W. MUNN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Oct. 26 — (BUP) — The United Nations started its seventh year with world-wide celebrations of its birth while its secretariat and delegations converged on Paris in preparation for what could be its most momentous general assembly session.

Secretary-General Trygve Lie declared in a UN day message Wednesday that although the "fear of a world war worse than any other in history" demotates the world scene, the UN still can be proud of its work during the last six years.

"The fear of a world war worse than any other in history—unfortunate symptom of the present international tension—is still the most predominant factor in the international scene and also evidence that the Reds for which the UN was created have not been fully realized," Lie said in his statement released here.

"Great, and in some respects, successful efforts have, however, been made by the UN to prevent war, to promote the peaceful settlement of disputes and to serve as the channel of cooperative action toward the achievement of economic and social progress."

HAIL DAMAGE

CALGARY — The Alberta Hail Insurance Board said that farmers in the province lost an estimated $30,000,000 worth of crops this year through hail damage.

The board said hail affected growth to some degree on two million acres of crop lands. Hail fell on some part of Alberta on 62 days.

Mice Attack School Children

OAKLAND, Calif., — (BUP) — Mice are becoming a threat to education in the Oakland area.

Yesterday Edward Roddy, 11, and Robert J. Newman, 10, were bitten by an indignant mouse they cornered in a sixth grade room of Thomas Jefferson Elementary school at nearby San Leandro.

At the same time, Bernie Stockwell, 14, was treated for a lacerated thumb caused by the slashing molar of a mouse he pursued in the Claremont Junior High school yard.
